NEW QUESTION: 1

"When the workplace is permeated with discriminatory intimidation, ridicule and insult that is sufficiently severe or pervasive to alter the conditions of the victim's employment and create an abusive working environment, Title VII is violated." This is a statement made with regard to which of the following sexual-harassment court cases?

- A. Faragher v. City of Boca Raton
- B. Burlington Industries v. Ellerth
- C. Oncale v. Sundowner Offshore Services
- D. Harris v. Forklift Systems, Inc.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Answer option A is correct. Harris v. Forklift Systems Inc. was referenced in the case of same-sex harassment brought to the Supreme Court in Oncale v. Sundowner (D). Oncale helped determine that gender is of little consequence when harassment meets the statutory requirements defined in Harris. Faragher v.

City of Boca Raton (B) and Burlington Industries v. Ellerth (C) were also important cases aiding in interpreting the concept of sexual harassment in the workplace. Chapter: Employee and Labor Relations Objective: Review Questions

What is the difference between Access Control Lists (ACLs) and Capability Tables?

- A. Capability tables are used for objects whereas access control lists are used for users.
- B. Access control lists are related/attached to an object whereas capability tables are related/attached to a subject.
- C. They are basically the same.
- D. Access control lists are related/attached to a subject whereas capability tables are related/attached to an object.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

A capability table stipulates the access rights that a specified subject has in relation to detailed objects. Access control lists defines subjects that are authorized to access a specific object, and includes the level of authorization that subjects are granted.

Therefore, the difference between the two is that the subject is bound to the capability table, while the object is bound to the ACL.

Incorrect Answers:

A: This is incorrect as access control lists are related/attached to an object, and capability tables are related/attached to a subject.

C: This is incorrect as access control lists are used for objects, and capability tables are for subjects.

D: access control lists and capability tables are not basically the same because one is bound to objects, and the other is bound to subjects.
