NEW QUESTION: 2

If a company uses the same discount rate for evaluating all projects, which of the following results is likely?

- A. Accepting only poor, high-risk projects.
- B. Accepting poor, high-risk projects.
- C. Accepting all projects.
- D. Accepting only good, low risk projects.
- E. Accepting no projects.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

Under the risk-adjusted discount rate, differential project risk is dealt with by changing the discount rate. High-risk projects are discounted at a higher cost of capital; lower-risk projects are discounted at a rate below the firm's average cost of capital, etc. This approach incorporates project risk into capital budgeting.
