NEW QUESTION: 2

Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation

Step 1: Create a nonclustered index by year

Step 2: Define a partitioning function

A partition function must first be created in a CREATE PARTITION FUNCTION statement before creating a partition scheme.

Step 3: Define a partitioning scheme

The CREATE PARTITION SCHEME command creates a scheme in the current database that maps the partitions of a partitioned table or index to filegroups. The number and domain of the partitions of a partitioned table or index are determined in a partition function.

Step 4: Create a partitioned clustered columnstore index. Use columnstore_archive data...

For partitioned tables and indexes, you can configure the compression option for each partition, and the various partitions of an object do not have to have the same compression setting.

For partitioned columnstore tables and columnstore indexes, you can configure the archival compression option for each partition, and the various partitions do not have to have the same archival compression setting.

The partition scheme must already exist in the database when you create a columnstore index.
