Answer:

Explanation:

Explanation

Box 1: OnModelCreating

Box 2: Entity

Box 3: ToTable

Mapping an Entity Type to a Specific Table in the Database

Example:

All properties of Department will be mapped to columns in a table called t_Department.

```
modelBuilder.Entity<Department>()
```

```
    .ToTable("t_Department");
```

Box 4: Entity

Box 5: ToTable

Mapping the Table-Per-Type (TPT) Inheritance

In the TPT mapping scenario, all types are mapped to individual tables. Properties that belong solely to a base type or derived type are stored in a table that maps to that type. Tables that map to derived types also store a foreign key that joins the derived table with the base table.

modelBuilder.Entity<Course>().ToTable("Course");
```

```
modelBuilder.Entity<OnsiteCourse>().ToTable("OnsiteCourse");
```

NEW QUESTION: 3

A global industry is one that:

- A. Has secured a competitive advantage based on economies of scale in centralized production.
- B. Has a strategic advantage by establishing coordinated competition in many national markets.
- C. Contains competitors that are multinationals.

D. Has made large direct investments abroad.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The analysis of a competition in an industry requires consideration of the economics of the industry and the characteristics of competitors. However, in a global industry, the analysis is not limited to one market, but extends to all markets (geographic or national) taken together. Michael E. Porter defines a global industry as one in which the strategic positions of competitors in major geographic or national markets are fundamentally affected by their overall global positions. "Thus, an industry becomes global because it perceives a net strategic advantage to competing, as Porter says, in a coordinated way in many national markets."
