NEW QUESTION: 4

Cisco is a medium sized accounting firm that has four offices around the country. The head office is in Phoenix with branches in Boston, Chicago and Los Angeles. Cisco wants connectivity between these offices with minimal expense due to a limited budget.

What topology would you recommend for Cisco ?

- A. Star hub and spoke
- B. Partial mesh
- C. Ring
- D. Full mesh

Answer: A

Explanation:

The star topology specifies a core router that serves as the hub for the WAN connections.

Designers often refer to this topology as a hub-and-spoke topology. The core router connects to each of the branch offices; in fact, branch offices can only communicate with each other if they pass their communications through the core (hub) router. The star topology features the advantage of simplified and centralized management of the WAN topology.
