Two components of Genericware2.0 are causing performance issues on a Windows 7 PC. One Generic 2.0 component is currently not responding and needs to be disabled upon reboot. To prevent further performance issues ensure both components are no longer running upon reboot, without making any other changes to the current system or without deleting registry keys or shortcuts. Instructions: When you have completed the simulation, please select the done button to submit your answer.

Answer:

Explanation:

Please review explanation for detailed answer.

Explanation

Please check the below images for detailed steps to do:

This is a simple one, you will start on the Windows Desktop, "Go to the Start menu and type in the search bar ?SCONFIG". after you're done click on Startup and remove the Tick from the application name provided by the sim (genware.exe I think ). When this is done, "Click on the Services tab, and remove the tick from the application name provided by the sim. After that's finished click Apply and OK". and you're "Done".Tip: In disable startup program called "genware2.0" just go to start type msconfig and it will be in start-up column and also in service. Then go to start find folder startup and remove programs icon from that folder you don't have to remove it from trash.

Authentication for Login To enable authentication, authorization, and accounting (AAA) authentication for logins, use the login authentication command in line configuration mode. AAA services must also be configured.

Configuration Procedure In this example, the router is configured to retrieve users' passwords from a TACACS+ server when users attempt to connect to the router.

From the privileged EXEC (or "enable") prompt, enter configuration mode and enter the commands to configure the router to use AAA services for authentication: router#configure terminal Enter configuration commands, one per line. End with CNTL/Z. router(config)#aaa new-model router(config)#aaa authentication login my-auth-list tacacs+ router(config)#tacacs-server host 192.168.1.101

router(config)#tacacs-server key letmein Switch to line configuration mode using the following commands. Notice that the prompt changes to reflect the current mode.

router(config)#line 1 8 router(config-line)# Configure password checking at login. router(config-line)#login authentication my-auth-list Exit configuration mode. router(config-line)#end router# %SYS-5-CONFIG_I: Configured from console by console
